Naturalization.

Prejudice gives way slowly to utility. But we live in a practical in a utilitarian age—and it is only a matter of time when the distrust and prejudice of nations will give way to the recognition of the doctrine, that what will not bear the test of utility is unfit to be recognized as a principle of political economy. In one department of utility—one branch of industrial and political science the United States has been a great benefactor to the world; and the oldest and proudest nations of Europe have had to assent to her dicta: we mean naturalization. In 1818 the United States went to war with England on a question concerning the right of individuals to de-nationalize themselves. The war was, however, concluded without adjusting the question; and it was only a day or so ago that the telegraph announced that England had conceded the principle—had given up the doctrine of "once a subject always a subject"—and had formally ratified a treaty by which British subjects may become citizens of the United States, and be free from allegiance to the British Crown. Similar treaties, and laws to make them operative, have been made by and between the United States and Prussia and other European States. The citizens and subjects of European states now enter the United States, become citizens, and return to their native country without being liable by the laws of their native land; and whilst there are entitled to be treated and recognized as a citizen of a foreign power. To the Irish and German immigrants the great political families of mankind are mainly indebted for taking the initiative in this principle of international law. Doubtless European powers would have continued to hold out against it, had it not been for the power of the United States to protect her native and naturalized citizens, and owing to the more enlightened doctrines that obtain to-day with European statesmen. The deduction from this improved state of international law with reference to naturalization is that the principle is recognized, that a man may select the country of which he may become a citizen, and so long as he bears allegiance to such a country no other can hold him to service on the ground that he was formerly a citizen. England has never been a land inviting foreign immigrants, but it has benefited much by refugees who have sought her as an asylum from political or religious oppression. Neither have the British Colonies been much sought for as a home by immigrants from the Continental States of Europe. Australia has invited and received Germans, and Canada has welcomed both Germans and Scandinavians; but neither in very great numbers. The United States, on the contrary has been the great field of attraction for European immigrants. No age of the world has ever witnessed such multitudes peacefully changing their nationality as in the present, and no nation ancient or modern ever gained so many valuable citizens by immigration as the United States. The human tide will continue to flow to the American continent till the value of labor shall be equalized with its price in Europe, and long after the waste lands of America shall have been occupied. This country too has benefited to a very considerable degree by the immigration of others than British subjects. Nearly all the nationalities of Europe, Asia and America may be found in our midst setting their part as good and useful citizens. Some—quite a large number have been naturalized, have become subjects of Her Majesty so far as British Columbia is concerned. Our object ought to be, however, to naturalize all if possible—make all our foreign residents British Subjects—have no element in our population living under a political disability; but all politically equal, all taking and bearing their part in every measure that concerns the common interest—the public welfare. In the United States, the work of assimilating foreign immigrants is wonderfully rapid. Every citizen in the country, that of President lies open to them there is no other disability, and it is no wonder European immigration flock to that country and rapidly assimilate with its people. In this country, our naturalization law is liberal—very liberal—making the naturalized subject in every respect the equal, politically, of the native-born. But the great drawback here to naturalization is that it does not carry our nationality beyond the boundaries of British Columbia. In other words, if a person were naturalized here, he would only be a British subject in British Columbia. When he went to Canada or Australia he would be still a foreigner. The drawback is now, however, likely to be removed; at least the prospect of our early admission into the Dominion of Canada extends the limit of naturalization—throws open all the northern end of this continent—and offers a field for citizenship next only to the United States on the American continent. It is now becoming more attractive to foreign citizens—more just—more utilitarian—more humanitarian—more to the common interest. Those who are raising families in our midst may now point out to their children a birthright in a nationality extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific—a rival to the two other nations who occupy the southern portion of North America. They may do so, convinced that our new northern nationality will become a powerful State; and set so secondary part in the affairs of the continent or the world now, we have been fed into these observations by the wish of some parties to know what status a naturalized citizen would hold after union with Canada; and on referring to the authorities, we find that naturalization under our law will give a voice in public affairs to all the naturalized who are in and belong to British Columbia. But it is almost certain that a naturalized British Columbian, if he removed to Canada, would still be an alien. Such being the case, it ought to become a part of the terms of Confederation that all our naturalized citizens should be recognized as British subjects throughout the Dominion. Our naturalization law will hold good after union, till changed by the Dominion; and then, whatever change may be made ought to be most liberal.

Twenty-four Lies.

In a newspaper published in this city have appeared, yesterday, twenty-four false statements, designed to deceive the public. We have never noticed many deliberate consecutive falsehoods together in any journal before; and consider that the public may not be deceived, we republish them, duly marked and numbered for their guidance. Here is the production:

Lie No. 1.

The editor of the STANDARD is rapidly acquiring a reputation entailing him to the position of Lickens's Commentator.

Lie No. 2.

He has long enjoyed the reputation of being a Political Windsock.

Lies No. 3 and 4.

It will be remembered that during the election of 1869, when Victoria awarded him a seat in the House of Commons, he used some words "to his misfortune," which were taken up by the "villainous words." "To be ill with Confidence."

Lies No. 5 and 6.

It will be remembered how, during the campaign which placed him in a position to represent District No. 2 in the Legislature, he pledged himself to oppose Confederation, and was accompanied with the following promise to regulate our own customs tariff.

Lies No. 7 and 8.

It will be remembered that during the last session he disowned in unmeasured terms a government scheme of Confederation, and recommended one in lieu thereof, which was commended as a wise addition to his own.

Lie No. 9.

It will be remembered that, finally, he declared that no terms the Delegation could bring back from Ottawa would be acceptable to the country.

Lies No. 10, 11 and 12.

It will be remembered how he heaped ridicule upon the great railway scheme, and earnestly labored to prove that our line was greatly longer and more difficult, than the American one nor in operation, that it would not and would not be entertained by capitalists, and all this at the critical moment when our Delegates were at Ottawa pressing the immediate construction of the railway as a necessity.

Lies No. 13 and 14.

It will be remembered how, when the terms agreed upon at Ottawa became known, he denounced them and appealed to the people to rise up at once against the whole scheme, pointing to the financial basis sufficient of itself to justify the country in forever rejecting the Government terms.

Lies No. 15 and 16.

It must be present to the minds of the persons who read his sheet how he denounced Jim Crow, and is now advocating an immediate confederation on any terms that will gratify, and is stoutly asserting that he are people are an unit upon the question.

Lies No. 17 and 18.

Ever on the alert for a dark spot, he is stirring up dirt, he eagerly curls his fingers at all gravity, that a bill was introduced to exchange any item unfavorable to Canada.

Lies No. 19 and 20.

But his opportunistic proclivity was strikingly illustrated yesterday in a leading article on the "Dominion Franchise." He suddenly discovered another dangerous foe among people in Confederation, and shouts "Break heads!"

Lies No. 21 and 22.

The public are invited to believe that, in the art of the Dominion, they will be in greater danger of having an "abominably illiberal franchise forced upon them; and in proof of the immutability of this new danger, he mentions that a bill was introduced to the Commons which had it passed would have disfranchised possibly four-fifths of the people, were British Columbia a part of the Dominion. But the bill didn't pass, so, we believe, it was never so much produced.

Lie No. 23.

His chief privisions were intimidated, and the art of "feeling."

Lie No. 24.

And so very general was the outcry raised against it, both within and without the walls of Parliament, that it never came up before the house at all.

The marks and numbers render it unnecessary to make any further comment on the above extract, except that the author evidently possesses a fine genius for lying.

DEATH IN THE GAOL.—[On Thursday night last, Charles Cootla Indian, named Charley, was found dead in his cell in the gaol. The deceased committed a murder about four years ago, for which he was tried and found guilty, and sentenced to be hanged. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.]

The Coroner empanelled a jury yesterday to inquire into the cause of death. Dr. Helmcken testified that the deceased died of consumption. The jury returned a verdict accordingly. The aged man was buried in the morning. It was considered much grief at the departure of him that "brass limbs" whence no native N.W.C.E.'er returns. "Lo, the poor Indian!"

CORRECTION.—We are authorized by Mr. Trimble to say, that although he was once elected when the license of Stevens was renewed, yet he was not a party to the refusal to renew the license. He was never licensed, and he never interferes in licenses that are applied for outside the city limits. The fact that he is on the Bench because of the petition of Pemberton and Macdonald, does not mean that he was ever a party to the refusal to license. The Bench unanimously refused to license.

SANBORN DISTRICTS.—At present there are large reaping machines at work in the large districts busily cutting the oats. These are better this year than any previous season, and the weather is also favorable. We are looking forward to a very successful Agricultural Exhibition in that district next month, about the 25th. We hope it will prove in every way successful.

ACCIDENT.—The auction sale of watches, P. Davies & Co., Wharf street, was largely attended yesterday. Large prices were realized.

FARWELL BENEFIT.—The Nelson Brothers will take a grand farwell benefit on Monday evening. The audience will be in attendance and there will be a foot race, by then, around the ring, for a silver goblet. Full particulars will appear in the advertisement, on Monday morning. We hope to see the Nelson Brothers get a fair sale, as they are in a little pecuniary difficulty in the city, which they want to settle up before they leave.

INTERESTING CEREMONY.—On Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m., in the Catholic Church of St. Andrew's, Humboldt street, the conclusion of the Mission given by the Very Rev. F. X. Weninger, D. D. will be celebrated with the impressive ceremonies of the occasion. The Mission Cross will be blessed and the Very Rev. Missionary will preach and impart Papal Benediction. A Select Choir will be in attendance.

HUMBOLDT STREET.—This street, which was the cause of some little disagreement among the Streets Committee a few days ago, is now being graded as suggested by Councillor Russell. Six workmen and two teams are engaged on it every day, filling up and making the grade. In one week more it will be finished and make one of the best streets in the city.

FOR COXON.—The slop Alarm will leave at 11 o'clock this morning, for Comox, and the steamer Sir James Douglas on Tuesday morning, at 7 o'clock, for Nanaimo, Comox, and the intermediate settlements. The Douglas, since she has been repaired, is running first-rate, making quicker time than she ever did before.

CISTERN.—Workmen were engaged yesterday at the corner of Fort and Blanchard streets, to find out if it was a practicable place to build a cistern. They sunk to the depth of sixteen feet and did not find any rocks. Tenders will be received at the office of the City Clerk, up till noon to-day, for the building of the above cistern. Work will be commenced on Monday.

FROM NANAIMO.—The steamer Grappler, Capt. Frain, arrived in Esquimalt harbor, yesterday afternoon, from Nanaimo, having in tow the steamers Fly and Emily Harris, both loaded with coal for the navy. Capt. Frain reports the smoke fearfully thick on the route from Nanaimo to Esquimalt. There is no later news than that which came by the Douglas on Thursday.

WARREN SEB OWSEN.—Yesterday a cow destroyed several beautiful young trees which are planted in front of the residences of Mr. James Nesbitt and Mr. Fitterer, on Cormorant street. The tree are all fenced around five feet from the ground, and this cow got up with her fore-feet on the fence, and broke the tops off the whole of them off.

COWICHAN.—In this district a large number of men are employed harvesting, and the weather continues very favorable for it. Great preparations are being made for the coming exhibition at Maple Bay. A large platform is being erected for dancing, which will take place in the evening. A large number of visitors expected from the city.

H. M. GUNBOAT BOXER is still at Dickson, Campbell & Co.'s wharf, having her machinery and boilers overhauled by Mr. Joseph Spratt, of the Allgood Foundry. Her repairs, we are informed, will be completed in about two weeks more, when she will go around to Esquimalt again.

WHISKEY SELLING.—Charles Sellock was charged in the Police Court yesterday morning, by special officer Farrell, with supplying the same of whiskey to Indians. Mr. Sellock appeared for the prisoner. The case was remanded one day for further evidence.

APPEALED.—Dr. Ash served a notice of appeal on the Sibiptyndy Magistrate yesterday afternoon, in the case of the Road Tax which was given against him a short time ago. The case will come up for argument in the Supreme Court a few weeks hence.

THISTLES.—The City Messenger was going around yesterday, notifying parties owning lots with thistles on them, that they must be rooted out immediately, or proceedings would be taken, in a summary manner, to compel those who will not obey the notice.

FUNERAL.—The funeral of the late Mr. W. P. Sayward took place yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by the members of both the Lodge of Odd Fellows and a large number of citizens. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Dean Gridge.

JOURNALS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—Yesterday we received a copy of the above book for 1870, from the Government. The session commenced on the 23d of February and ended on the 23d of April, of the present year.

BROKEN ARM.—It is not generally known that the Hon. Mr. Phillippe accidentally had his arm below the elbow broken last week. It is pleasing to learn that he is as fast recovering as it is possible, without any unfavorable symptoms.

DR. SMITH lectured again last night at the Alhambra Hall, to a very fair house. To-night he will lecture for the last time, admission 25 cts. We hope to see the hall full, as the lectures are instructive as well as interesting.

MAYOR.—J. C. Nicholson, Esq., of Dickson Campbell & Co, has been mentioned as a candidate for Mayor at the ensuing election. He would make a good Mayor for Victoria, if he could be induced to serve.

The telegraph wire, yesterday, refused to talk. The fires are getting so numerous in the woods that it is an impossibility to keep them up. We will, no doubt, have some exciting news, to-day.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—H. M. S. Chanticleer will leave this morning, at 7 o'clock, for San Francisco direct, to receive orders from the Admiral, who is still in San Francisco with the Zenopus.

SENTENCED.—James McGilivray was sentenced, in the Police Court yesterday morning, to pay a fine of $100, or in default to suffer six months' imprisonment, for selling whiskey to Indians.

AUCTION.—We would remind our readers of the cattle sale to-day, at J. P. Davies & Co.'s Cattle Sales Yard, Fort street. Those who wish to get some fine cattle had better attend the sale.

from the Mangrove Copper Prospecting Company, Knight's Inlet, arrived from there very late last night, in a canoe. They brought down quite a quantity of fine sea-looking fish.

They reported the Indians as being very troublesome, and exceedingly hostile. The party had hard work to get in their canoe and get off with their lives.

Stevens' Case.

JUDICIAL STANDARD:—I must say the action of the Justices in refusing John Stevens' case, appears to me to be a most arbitrary one. It is refused because the conviction which was rendered against him has been established, and therefore the magisterial decision are hurt? For my part, I read the evidence on which the conviction was made, and I must say that the conclusion I arrived at was very unfavorable for the impartiality of the magistrate; for the evidence of this case was that Stevens had informed of this being in his neighborhood, the first time Stevens came to town. But the answer of the police was that it did not pay to go after him; and yet, in the face of this, they were convicted of secreting this man. Further, the charges against him were of a disorderly conduct, never have there been any offenses upon which he was convicted, or even any such as would justify his going away; and if Stevens' account is correct, it is, because one of the Benth has a grudge against him, as he spoke some unnecessary words to him; and therefore this case is decided against him. I think whether this is so or not, I think that the public ought to be considered, and a house much used and so well spoken of should not be closed up by the magistrates without cause.

August 19, 1870.

An Australian Romance.

About thirty-five years ago, one William Bailey called on the University of Dublin, and drew attention to business soon becoming a self-styled Doctor of Laws. He was a good-looking man, an eloquent preacher, and was especially successful in the success of tea-parties, absolutely necessary for the well-being of picnics, and brilliant light in those heterogeneous societies called conversations. Unfortunately for Dr. William Bailey, he was one of our divines who had to pass rich on £40 a year, and he was a Xavier before attending to the fashionable world speedily involved in debt past all hopes of redemption. William has a sister rolling in wealth, and though she listened to his sermons, and was devoted to his religious relationship, she steadfastly refused to send her money to him or become responsible in any way for his liabilities. At length, in 1843, William Bailey, LL.D., took the liberty of signing for himself a name to acquire for himself £700, and she at once gave him credit for a trial case of, and the soil-straining teacher, the fashionable divine, the cradle of William, was banished for ten years to Batavia, Java. The ladies went to his home, and the lady, who was a sister of his, and the unfortunate man Bailey, "but he soon dropped out of mind, and became nothing more than an ordinary convict. All this happened in 1843, and now a rumour has reached the ears of the wisecracks of Dublin University, that William Bailey, LL.D., who once met in best Irish circles, and once met Judge under very painful circumstances. He had traced his antecedents from the Newgate register, and staggered his flock by the assertion that the Episcopal See was filled by an accomplished flogger. The Senate of the University of Dublin have, therefore, resolved to elect Dr. William (Francis Xavier) Bailey to this degree, and hold him forth to the religious world as a wolf in sheep's clothing.

German Wealth in New York.

The richest man in New York, in his day, was a German emigrant, who never learned English, "but always said "tousands" instead of "hundreds," and "dat" instead of "that." This was John William and his grandson John Jacob Astor. These two families have been in America still retain the strong German aspect of character. Indeed I think that Colonel John Jacob Astor might be taken for a newly landed Prussian. Some important branches of commerce have sprung from them, commenced in German hands, and have brought immense wealth here. Here are the Havermeyers, the Ockenshausers and the Mullers, who have gathered immense fortunes out of the sugar-refining trade, and whose names are prominent in the furniture business is still in their hands. The richest manufacturer in oil colors is Daniel F. Tiemann, a German. The Stock Exchange abounds with German brokers, and the great wholesale sale of the other goods is in Wall street. They have very strong national feelings, and will not remain long spectators of their country's ruin. The most popular melody to-day among this class of Germans is the "Heimliche Melodie der German Rhine." "He" means the fatherland, and he shall not have it, even if you young German element is obliged to forsake its defence.—N. Y. Cor. Rochester Democrat.

A NOVEL SURGICAL OPERATION.—

A paper in the Montreal Standard, dated August 1st, Mr. Coleman read at a meeting of the Ontological Society, describes a novel method of curing that kind of toothache known professionally as chronic periodontitis, or inflammation of the gum tissue around what loose, and painful to bite on, with swelling of the gums and suppuration. The remedy is called "replantation." The tooth is taken out, and all the diseased parts are removed, the crown is broken off, and the root washed and disinfected in carbolic acid, and then the portions of mucous membrane which are commonly attached to the neck of the tooth, and appear healthy, are not scraped away, but left in place, and the tooth is drawn is also properly cleaned, and the whole is put back into its former place, and in a number of cases it takes root, and fixes itself firmly in the course of a fortnight, and themselves believe that, as in other surgical operations, they can become free from pain, and thus acquire experience. The teeth are important to life and health, that whatever means to preserve them should be encouraged.

T. N. HIBBEN & Co. having for a period of years appropriated a certain class of books to a circulating library, more for accommodation than profit, have by a fair experimentation that in consequence of the destruction of missing numbers issued, the result to the library has been a positive loss. With thanks we respectfully recommend their subscribers in future to avail themselves of the
